By Ben Kleppinger

STANFORD — In a highly contentious decision, city council members voted 4-2 Thursday night to approve the first reading of an ordinance that would lower the salary and benefits for the next mayor of Stanford by about $14,300. The ordinance introduced by Councilwoman Amy Hazlett would set the next mayor's salary at $18,000 instead of the current $30,000 per year and provide a $4,000 allowance for health-insurance premiums. The city currently pays about $6,300 annually for health insurance for the mayor, according to Hazlett. Hazlett provided copies of her proposed ordinance to city council members and Mayor Bill Miracle at the Thursday meeting and told them, "I want to vote on a first reading of this tonight." Miracle asked if City Attorney John Hackley had seen the proposed ordinance yet and Hazlett said, "I don't think he has." "Should he?" Miracle asked. Councilman Eddie Carter said he believes Hazlett's ordinance is taken from the HIGHLAND — Thousands of Lincoln County residents were without power, some for as long as three nights, following an ice storm that hit Lincoln County hard last week. Calls about power outages first began hitting Inter-County Energy's call center at about 5:30 p.m. on Feb. 4, said Sheree

Gilliam, spokeswoman for the electric cooperative. By mid-day on Feb. 5, about 6,300 customers had lost power in Inter-County's five-county coverage area, with more than 4,000 of those outages occurring in Lincoln County. The Highland and Waynesburg communities were hit hardest by the ice,

Snow days taking toll on school calendar

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Lincoln County schools have had quite a few snow days this year, but not quite enough — yet — to cause serious disruptions to the school calendar. Due to the 15 snow days Lincoln County students have had through Feb. 11, the first three days of Spring Break will be used as make-up days and school will continue until at least June 4, said Bruce Smith with district student services. Lincoln County planned for up to 18 snow days with its original 2013-2014 school calendar, but if snow days pile up beyond that, administrators may have to make some changes. A planned staff work day for March 21 has already been converted to a regular school day, Smith said. A couple professional development days — which students are out of school for — have been shifted around to help manage snow days as well, he added. The district can only lose three more days before it runs out of its originally scheduled make-up days. At that point, taking away the last two Spring Break days or adding onto the end of the school year are basical-

Audit shows improvement for Stanford finances

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — The City of Stanford improved its net financial position by tens of thousands of dollars during the 2012-2013 fiscal year, according to a preliminary audit report. The draft-version of the audit prepared by accountant Craig Butler shows the city successfully paid down debt and limited spending to less than generated revenue from July 1, 2012, to June 30, 2013. Stanford balanced about $1.96 million in general fund revenues against a little more than $1.9 million in expenditures, which dug it out of a hole it had been in at the end of the 2011-2012 fiscal year. Stanford ended that previous year with around $25,000 in the bank, but unpaid liabilities left the city with a negative net balance of -$51,238. Stanford paid off those liabilities shortly after the 2012 fiscal year ended, according to past audit discussions. At the end of the 2013 fiscal year, Stanford had almost $83,000 in cash, with a positive net balance of $4,534 after accounting for liabilities, according to the draft audit. While the city outspent its general fund revenues by nearly $265,000 in fiscal year 2012, it spent $55,772 less than general fund revenues in fiscal year 2013. After accounting for depreciation, payments on the city's long-term debts and other financial items, Butler's audit says the city's general fund had a positive "change in net position" of $175,492 over the previous year. The audit did not make any noteworthy findings of material discrepancies in the city's financial records. The audit is not a final version and Butler has not briefed Stanford City Council on the specifics yet.

UK Sweetheart Majorettes celebrate 45 years

This year at the Alumni Band weekend the 1968 Class of University of Kentucky Sweetheart Majorettes gathered for their 45th reunion. The first line of Sweetheart majorettes made their debut in the fall of 1968 on old Stoll Field during the halftime show of the UK Marching Band. Stanford High School graduate, Lynda Williams Closson was one of those majorettes.

The UK Band added female musicians to the band in the fall of 1968 and a line of majorettes called the UK Sweethearts. Lynda recalls the spring tryouts, "There were over 200 girls competing to be one of the 10 line majorettes. I will never forget walking onto Stoll Field and every yard line had girls lined up across the field. I just knew there was no way that I would be selected for one of those positions. But, when the tryouts were over I was one of twelve who remained on the field and was congratulated by the director for being selected as one of the first of what would become a tradition at the University: the UK Sweetheart Majorettes (ten on the line and two featured twirlers)!"

The Sweetheart Majorettes are already planning their 50th reunion in 2018 and are in hopes of bringing back all the girls from the first class of 1968. They have lost one to death and have only four more to locate. Twirling is a dying art and the 1968 Sweethearts are hoping that their publicity campaign into 2018 will bring a scholarship program for the majorettes attending UK like the programs that have been established at most of the SEC schools. Last year one of the runners up in the Miss America pageant was a baton twirler. Lynda said it best, "We must bring twirling back to Kentucky High Schools to feed into the UK majorette lines and if we can offer some scholarship money that will make twirling even more attractive."

News from the Ottenheim community

By Dorothea Schlappi

Well, we did it again or, should I say mother nature did? We have really had a bad winter, it's probably not over yet. Last week it was an icy wonderland but not so wonderful! Trees, light poles and wires were breaking, laden with ice. Electric poles were snapping like toothpicks, faster than the electric crews could fix them. The electric went out here on Tuesday, Feb. 4 at 9 p.m., we did not get electric back until Friday, Feb. 7 at 2 p.m. Some people got it back sooner and some later. We had bought a generator after the last ice storm a few years ago, just waiting to be taken from its box. We could only run a few things at one time with the gasoline generator or we left it off at times during the night to rest. We piled on the covers, hung quilts over doors, hallways and windows. We shut off all other rooms and stayed in one area. Some people did not have a generator so went elsewhere to stay. We could heat water in a coffee pot for hot drinks. A television crew came around but I don't think anyone wanted to be interviewed. It was hard on the crews working in such cold, snowy, sleeting weather for our benefit. We can all be thankful for all those people, some working day and night for our comfort! Thanks to everyone!

We hope Delmas Petrey is okay from his stay in the hospital. Friday, Feb. 14, Valentine's Day, St. Sylvester Church in Ottenheim will have a fund-raising supper from 6 to 8 p.m. for the building fund. The supper is Salisbury steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, corn, green beans, rolls, drink and dessert. Adults will be $8, children six to 12 will be $4 and under six years is free. Take out meals will be available. Bring your valentine and enjoy an evening out.

Pat Burt fell and broke her ankle, we hope she is home from the hospital and doing well. Our thoughts and prayers are with you.

Our thoughts go out to the Kitty Pence family in her passing last week. Susan (her daughter) and Larry Brown used to reside here in Ottenheim. She was a very nice person and will be remembered by many.

The school children will have a lot of snow days to make up when the weather is nice this summer. I'm sure some have enjoyed these times being off. It's just dangerous having the buses on the roads for the safety of the children.

We saw a flock of geese trying to form a V shape, about 30, I believe they are a little early, or spent the winter around here somewhere.

We wish Classie Goetz' great grandson a speedy recovery from his surgery.

Carol Philpot, we hope you are on the way to recovery from your surgery. We miss you at church and you will heal fast and back on your feet.

I guess these bad days are a time to catch up on things we put off until the last minute. Tax time is here again and preparations are needed to get all papers in order.

It's a shame the cost of stamps had to go up again. Even the mail can't run for nothing. Electric, water and etc., will be rising after this winter, it's to be expected.

The government is trying to raise the minimum wage to $10 an hour for some and take it from others. Nothing equals out in the end.

Reaching out to God is like shaking hands with a friend, He is that friend!

Pleasant View Baptist Church news

By Martha Roberts

Sunday's service was a wonderful reminder of the importance of prayer in the life of the church and the individual as he grows in relationship with God. After the choir led in the joyful praise of "These Are the Days of Elijah," Bro. Matthew read the beginning of John 17. He emphasized that as Christ glorified God, we, too, should glorify God in our lives. We should pray more selfless prayers not selfish prayers.

Bro. Kyle then had the congregation spend a few minutes discussing the effects of the recent power outages. He used the loss of electricity to emphasize the effects of the loss of the power of the Holy Spirit in the church. In Acts 1:8 Christ tells the disciples that they will "receive power from the Holy Spirit" and the power will enable them to minister in His name. Acts 2:1-4 describes this coming of the Holy Spirit in the day of Pentecost. The Holy Spirit came 50 days after the resurrection of Christ and 10 days after His ascension. After Peter's message to the people, 3,000 people were saved with prayer and the power of the Holy Spirit. Acts 4 recounts that when they prayed their meeting place shook and they were filled with the Holy Spirit and began to preach boldly.

Why then do we not see this happening in our churches if we, too, are believers? The answer given must be that we lack power because we lack prayer. The church may be doing a lot of "things" but without the power of the Holy Spirit we are not accomplishing what God wants. Isaiah 56:7 says : . . My house will be called a house of prayer for all nations." The defining characteristic of the church must be prayer.

After the reading of James 5:13 the congregation had a time of prayer for those experiencing troubles. Continuing with James 5:13 a song of praise "Alleluia" was sung. After reading in James 5:13-18 the congregation had prayer for healing, both physical and spiritual. We were reminded that physical healing will always take place but not necessarily on earth. Sin is a spiritual disease therefore prayer for spiritual healing is appropriate.

The congregation was reminded that Elijah was "a human being, even as we are" but one who believed and prayed earnestly. We, too, need to believe and seek God's will. Hebrews 4:16 tells us to "approach God's throne of grace with confidence." We are to pray fervently and boldly that God will do amazing things that we cannot do.

We extend Christian sympathy to the family of Darrell Carmen upon the death of his father, Paul Carman; to the family of Elwanda Gourley, Larry Young's aunt and to the family of Art Hibbard, a member of Pleasant View Baptist Church.

Congratulations to Mark Wilson for making the President's List for first semester from Eastern Kentucky University.

Congratulations to Joseph and Faith Hampton upon the birth of their daughter, Jemma Rae. She is the granddaughter of Jerry and Reta Hampton.

The training sessions will be held Feb.18, March 11 and March 25 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Please notify Bro. Kyle or Bro. Matthew if you plan to attend.

Tuesday, Feb. 25, we will be traveling to the state evangelism conference to hear great preaching and experience powerful worship. Please register for this free event online at kybaptist.org/risk. We will be taking the church bus. Please contact Bro. Kyle for more information.

Contact Bridgett Blakeman if you want to participate in the Youth Bible Drill which is for 7th to 9th grades. Practices will be every Sunday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

ARGUMENT

minated effort to force him out because of political aspirations and “personal vendettas.”

Miracle said the issue of setting the next mayor’s salary wasn’t on the agenda for the council’s Feb. 6 meeting and he wasn’t expecting it to come up. He said he was “blindsided” by a push to pass a first reading of an ordinance that would cut the salary for the next Stanford mayor from $30,000 to $18,000 and reduce the amount available for the mayor’s health care premiums.

“(Councilman) Eddie (Carter) orchestrated this whole deal,” Miracle said. “... (Council members) Tom (Moser) and Amy (Hazlett) want me out of office today. Eddie wants the office for next term.”

Miracle alleged Carter, who has filed to run for mayor, “came up” with an amount he was willing to earn for being mayor and got Hazlett and Moser to go along with the amount because the two have a “personal vendetta” against him.

Hazlett and Moser both have family members who used to work for the city but were let go for different reasons, Miracle said.

But several council members who voted for the reduced mayor’s salary responded that their votes were above-board not made as an attack on Miracle.

Carter said following discussion of the next mayor’s salary at the council’s January meeting, he talked about the issue with Councilman Bobby Wilkinson and came up with a “compromise” salary of $18,000 plus $4,000 for health insurance premiums.

Carter said Moser and Hazlett, who had voted for a $15,000 salary and no health benefits at the January meeting, agreed to support the compromise.

“We feel pretty strong that that’s where it ought to be,” Carter said. “It’s not only a compromise but that’s where it needs to be right now.”

Hazlett said while she personally feels the compromise amount is “still a little too high,” she agreed to the compromise.

Hazlett said $18,000 plus health benefits is well above what most mayors in cities Stanford’s size are paid.

Data obtained from the Kentucky League of Cities by Moser and Carter show 50 percent of mayors in cities with populations of 2,000-6,000 make $10,100 or less, while about 75 percent make $18,485 or less.

The mayor of Prestonsburg currently makes the most of any mayor in a town of 2,000-6000, earning $71,448 a year, according to the data. Several cities in the same group pay their mayors $0. The data from KLC does not include health insurance premiums or other benefits.

Stanford has a population around 3,500. Moser said he calculates the average salary for a mayor in a city the size of Stanford to be about $11,500.

Moser denied his vote for the lower salary was a jab at Miracle.

“Everything is not against the mayor,” he said. “We need to represent the people who voted for us. ... I’m looking out for what I think is best for the city, personally.”

Miracle said he wants the council to consider additional data beyond averages, such as how many employees the cities have, how big the cities’ budgets are and how many boards the mayor is obligated to participate on.

Miracle said the amount of money a city pays for its mayor determines in part the talent pool available. He said he believes Stanford has been paying for a mayor that works to make the city a better place and cited examples from his time in office, such as annexations that increased the tax base and city improvements, including the Logan Avenue renovation and completion of the new sewer plant expansion.

Miracle, who has recommended lowering the salary to between $22,500 and $25,000, said the proposed $18,000 is “a little bit low” compared to what he thinks would be fair. He said if the $18,000 salary is put into law by the council, he’s going to have to do some “serious” thinking about whether he can afford to run for re-election.

Miracle was critical of ideas expressed by Carter and Moser at council meetings that Stanford is facing “hard times” and that the mayor’s salary should be lowered to help lower expenditures. While the city overspent its revenue in the 2011-2012 fiscal year, it turned things around significantly in the 2012-2013 fiscal year and improved its financial standing while also paying off some debt, Miracle said.

A preliminary audit draft from accountant Craig Butler confirms the city improved the net balance of its general fund by more than $55,000 from July 1, 2012, to June 30, 2013. The city also reduced the amount of long-term debt owed by the general fund by $278,000, according to data in the audit.

Carter said he has a copy of the preliminary audit but hasn’t read through it in-depth yet. He said he still believes cuts to the budget are appropriate.

“We’re not out of the woods. We’re going to have some tough times,” he said.

STANFORD

previous ordinance and is “probably legal.”

Hazlett confirmed the ordinance has appropriate wording.

Councilman Bobby Wilkinson seconded Hazlett’s motion for the first reading, explaining that he believes the city council needs to stop “bickering and fussing” about the mayor’s salary.

“I second that motion, but this stuff needs to be cleaned up. ... If it will clear this up, I second the motion,” Wilkinson said.

The topic of the next mayor’s salary caused a heated debate at the council’s January meeting, when Councilman Tom Moser made a motion to set the salary at $15,000. That motion failed 3-2 after a spirited debate.

Following Wilkinson’s second on Thursday, the council had another debate.

Miracle said because it’s a first reading there doesn’t have to be a vote, but Carter responded that the council has a right to vote on it.

Wilkinson said looking at other amounts cities pay to their mayors, he thinks it would make sense to lower the salary.

“And we’ve got a lot going on, just talking about needing equipment. We might tighten our belts” in order to afford some new equipment, Wilkinson added.

“We’ve got some tough years ahead, I agree with you Bobby,” Carter said. “Tough years ahead of us, you got that right.”

Miracle told the council members he thinks they should wait to move forward with setting a new salary until they have more data.

“If it takes me to say that I won’t run in order to get you guys to wait another month so we can get some better information, then I will do that,” Miracle said.

Miracle, who recommended at the January meeting reducing the mayor’s salary to between $22,500 and $25,000, said he believes the city needs to find a middle ground where it’s paying enough to attract talent for the position but not so much that it’s too expensive for the city.

“We’re going in the right direction financially. But at the same time, if you want a $5,000 mayor, that’s what you’re going to get, in my opinion, is a $5,000 mayor,” he said.

Miracle said too low of a salary for the mayor’s position won’t attract people who know how to “grow the city,” only people who will “keep things stagnant.”

Councilman Mike Southerland said a mayor who doesn’t do more than keep things the same runs the risk of moving backward instead of forward.

Naren James, a Stanford doctor who ran for city council in 2012 but placed outside the top six, addressed the council, saying he believes there is a “delicate balance” to be struck when setting the salary.

“You need talent. It’s just like a business,” he said. “If you don’t have good talent, you won’t be competitive.”

But, James added, you also need to be careful you’re not spending too much on the position.

Hazlett said she requested information from the Kentucky League of Cities about mayoral salaries and found out that the median pay for Kentucky mayors of cities with 2,000-6,000 in population is about $11,000. The median salary for mayors of cities with about 3,000 in population is $16,650, she added.

KLC doesn’t track how much cities pay for mayoral benefits beyond salaries, such as health-care premiums, Hazlett said.

Wilkinson warned the city doesn’t want to find itself in a situation where it might have to raise taxes.

Moser said his research, which involved calling 21 cities around Kentucky to find out what they pay their mayors, determined that a salary of about $15,400 is on par.

Six of those 21 cities provided insurance for the mayor and “most all of them” provided cell phones, he said.

“I love our city as much as anybody on this council, but we’re an average city and we’ve got a heavy debt load, and we need to start doing what we need to do to take care of that problem,” Moser said.

Councilman Eddie Carter, who has formerly served as mayor and has filed to run for mayor this year, said prior to his time as mayor, previous mayors made around $300 a month and got no benefits.

“I worked to get the mayor’s salary up more than anybody from day one to get it up to get benefits. I’ve worked my tail off,” Carter said. “It’s got too high. We’re in a financial situation now. It’s got to get down. We got a lot of hard times coming.”

Larry Nunemaker, a Stanford resident who frequents council meetings to discuss beautification of Logan Avenue, said the council approved the current mayor’s salary and if it’s too high it’s the council’s job to rectify that. But lowering pay too far will only allow for a mayor who treats the job like a “hobby,” he warned.

Nunemaker said that if the council were to set the salary at $10,000, for example, it would probably not get the city the kind of mayor it needs.

James re-entered the conversation, telling council members that deciding the next mayor’s salary is an important decision. He encouraged the council members to take the issue to their constituents around the city and avoid “rushing to a vote right away.”

James told city council members they need to consider facts beyond the average pay around the state, such as unique aspects about Stanford and what it will take from a pay perspective to get someone able to handle those unique

LANCASTER — A Lincoln County deputy sheriff was injured in a two-vehicle wreck Wednesday morning as she was traveling past the Pleasant Retreat shopping center in Lancaster.

Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger posted online that Deputy Linda Cook suffered a broken knee in a head-on collision while she was on her way to Richmond for training.

Lancaster Police Chief Rodney Kidd said preliminary investigation suggests a southbound black Chevy pickup crossed the center line on U.S. 27 and collided with Cook’s northbound SUV shortly before 6:30 a.m.

Cook suffered non-life-threatening injuries in the wreck; the driver of the pickup truck was not injured, Kidd said. Kidd said he did not have the name of the truck driver immediately available for release.

Folger posted online that the driver of the pickup crossed the center line because he fell asleep.

Folger said Friday Cook had been released from the hospital and would be seeing a specialist who would determine the best course for rehabilitating her knee.

sions without getting into petty, personal fights, while multiple people also said the council should take its time to make informed decisions on big issues.

Council enters executive session

After discussing other items on the agenda, the council voted to enter into a closed executive session to discuss personnel.

When the council allowed the public back into the meeting, Carter said the city council should have already had a vote “up or down” on the city clerk position.

“We should have already had a vote on that already and that’s what I found out today,” Carter said.

Carter said a woman with the Kentucky League of Cities told him the council has to approve of a city clerk appointed by the mayor.

The council did not vote on the city clerk issue and adjourned shortly after that.

Miracle said Friday the council will need to approve an appointment of a permanent city clerk when that appointment is made, but currently City Clerk Dana Taylor is only serving as an acting city clerk.

Miracle said he doesn’t want to attempt appointing Taylor as permanent city clerk until Taylor has had more training and time to adjust to the position.

Taylor has been serving as clerk since around April, after former Clerk Denise Pike resigned, citing difficulties working with Moser and Hazlett.

So far, Taylor has received two weeks of training but is feeling overwhelmed and will need more training before she can be appointed permanently, Miracle said.

“The tension between the mayor’s office and a couple of council members back and forth is affecting her,” Miracle said. “I don’t need and I don’t want another city clerk to walk out of the office.”

KSP warns of one-ring cell phone scam

The Kentucky State Police is warning cell phone users to be aware of a new scam called "The One-Ring Scam." Better Business Bureaus (BBB) across the country are seeing a rash of reports of 'ring and runs' on cell phones where returning a missed call from an unknown number may cost you.

KSP spokesman Sgt. Michael Webb says scammers profit from individuals who are curious enough to return that missed call.

"A computer program originating outside the U.S. dials American customers and lets the phone ring one or two times before hanging up," says Webb. "This is enough time to register on a phone's missed-calls screen, but typically not enough time for a user to actually answer."

"Many people who receive a missed call will return the call and that is when their account is charged approximately $20 for the call and $9 for every additional minute."

BBB experts say this is called 'phone cramming,' when automated dialers send out thousands of calls to random numbers. Most of the area codes are from the Caribbean Islands, but BBB says there is no way for them to really know where the calls are coming from.

Webb advises citizens to refrain from returning calls they do not recognize.

"We are encouraging people to review their cell phone statements and contact their cellular carrier immediately if they notice unauthorized charges," adds Webb.

The following is a list of area codes the BBB said is connected with the scam:

- Dominican Republic - 809
- Jamaica - 876
- British Virgin Islands - 284
- Grenada - 473
- Aruba - 297
- Antigua - 268

Learn to recognize symptoms of a heart attack

By James A. Turpin, M.D.

Heart attacks claim the lives of nearly half a million people each year. Because heart attacks are so common, it's important for individuals to know the symptoms of a heart attack and to seek immediate medical attention if they suspect they are having a heart attack.

Common symptoms of a heart attack are uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest that lasts more than a few minutes, or goes away and comes back; pain that spreads to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms or back; or chest discomfort associated with lightheadedness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath.

Warning symptoms that are less common but should be taken seriously, especially if they accompany any of the above symptoms, are abnormal chest pain, stomach or abdominal pain; nausea or dizziness; shortness of breath and difficulty breathing; unexplained anxiety, weakness or fatigue; or palpitations, cold sweat or paleness.

Not all of these symptoms occur in every heart attack, and sometimes they go away and return. Individuals can help to lower the chance of dying from a heart attack by recognizing symptoms and getting medical help immediately.

If you are with someone who is having a heart attack, you should call for an ambulance immediately. Ambulance crews have training and equipment to care for heart attack patients immediately and while they are being transported to the hospital. The person with heart attack symptoms should stop all physical activity and lie down, loosening clothing around the chest area and remaining calm until the ambulance arrives. While waiting for the ambulance, the individual can chew and swallow an aspirin unless he has an allergy to them.

To reduce your chances for a heart attack, you should quit smoking, lose excess weight, exercise regularly, eat a low-cholesterol diet and take medications to reduce cholesterol if necessary. Maintaining a healthy blood pressure, controlling diabetes and avoiding excessive alcohol consumption are also important for reducing your heart attack risks.

Dr. James Turpin is medical director of Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital's Emergency Department.

An encouraging word The need of the nation

By Howard Coop

One memory from childhood is vivid. In the eighth year of my life, my father joined a group of friends to visit the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln. During that visit, he reached across the chain that surrounds the cabin to touch one of the logs. When he did so, he came in contact with a tiny splinter and kept it. Across the years, he would show that little splinter to my sister, my brothers, and me and tell us what he knew about a farm boy from a poor family in Kentucky who grew up splitting rails to become the sixteenth president of the United States.

Abraham Lincoln was born on Sunday, Feb. 12, 1809 in a log cabin on Sinking Creek in LaRue County. Later the family moved to Knob Creek, and when Lincoln was seven years old, they moved to Indiana.

Lincoln was essentially a self-educated man who became President and led this nation through the greatest constitutional, military, and moral crisis it has faced.

Although he was not a member of any Christian church, Lincoln was a man with high moral principles. He believed in, and was committed to, certain things. In a statement made on July 31, 1864, Lincoln said, "That I am not a member of any Christian Church, is true; but I have never denied the truth of the Scriptures; and I have never spoken with intentional disrespect of religion in general, or any denomination of Christians in particular." Then, on Oct. 24, 1863 in a statement to the Baltimore Presbyterian Synod, he said, "Nevertheless, amid the great difficulties of my Administration, when I could not see any other resort, I would place my whole reliance on God, knowing that all would be well, and He would decide for the right."

Lincoln had an understanding of government. In the Gettysburg Address he declared that government is "of the people, by the people, and for the people..." And he is credited with saying, "The legitimate object of government, is to do for a community of people, whatever they need to have done, but can not do, at all, or can not do...for themselves, in their separate, in their individual capacities."

Of the 44 men who have become President, almost all of them had a signature act. The Emancipation Proclamation was Lincoln's signature act. In his message to Congress on Dec. 1, 1862, Lincoln said, "In giving freedom to the slaves, we assure freedom to the free."

Lincoln's birthday, once a national holiday, will pass with little notice. But it should be a reminder that the need of the nation is for leaders who are men of courage and commitment that will be guided by moral principles and stand for what is right in all situations.

How many times we have tried to do "deal making" with God: in school before a big test; in business with a major promotion at stake; in a crisis when disaster appears imminent. It's that old philosophy that says, "There are no atheists in foxholes". God did His deal making is 33 A.D. He will forgive our sins in return for our agreeing to follow Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. Plus, He promises to throw in a large dose of grace to help us balance the scales. But there's no negotiating. What a deal! We invite you to come worship with us this Sunday at the Stanford Christian Church, 200 East Main Street (next to the courthouse), at 10:50 a.m. Make this deal a part of your life!

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE
TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

Abram and Lot
Genesis 13

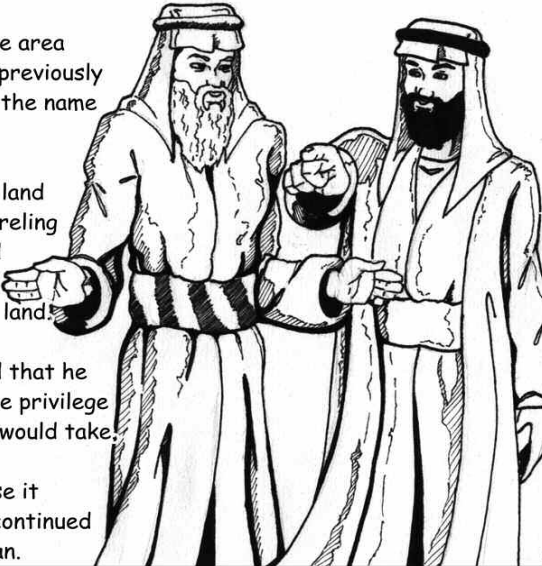

The famine that sent Abram from Canaan to Egypt was over so Abram returned to Negev with his wife and his nephew, Lot, and everything he had. Abram was wealthy with livestock, silver and gold.

They continued to Bethel and on to the area between Bethel and Ai, where he had previously built an altar. There Abram called on the name of the Lord.

Lot also had flocks and herds and the land would not support both families. Quarreling arose between Abram's herdsmen and Lot's herdsmen. There were also the Canaanites and Perizzites living in the land.

Being a peacemaker, Abram suggested that he and Lot part company. He gave Lot the privilege of choosing which part of the land he would take.

Lot chose the land near Sodom because it appeared to be more fertile. Abram continued to live in the less fertile land of Canaan.

How to increase productivity in your garden using animals

Join The Gardener's Group and Geoff and Lindsey McPherson, owners of Good Life Ranch, on Thursday, Feb. 27 at 6 p.m. at the Casey County Education Building. Their farm includes heritage livestock, heirloom fruits and vegetables, and is known for it's quality pork and poultry that they raise naturally on pasture. They have a no-spray market garden and the focus of their farm is sustainability, which means using as little as possible from off of the property. They will teach us how the animals help build the gardens, and the gardens help feed the animals, to allow the farm to be chemical-free. ## Fairview Baptist Church news

By Shelby Lakes

Sunday's message at Fairview was given by Bro. Johnny Baker and taken from Psalm 139. In this chapter David acknowledges God's omniscience (all knowing).

One key thought in the New Testament is the idea of knowing God. Salvation is based on whether we know God spiritually, not intellectually. The greatest privilege in life is knowing the God of Heaven. Many fail to have a relationship with Christ, Bro. Johnny said.

But before we know Him, He knows us inside out. What if someone knew all the sins in our lives – our actions and our thoughts? Considering Psalm 139, God knows everything in our lives. God hates for his children to sin, Bro. Johnny said. There is nowhere to hide from God.

The whole duty of man is to fear God and to keep his commandments, Bro. Johnny said, and thank God for 1 John 1:9: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Celebrating birthdays were Margaret Mink, Jennifer Gover, Glenda Walls, Laytham Rowe and Terry Oaks. George and June Callahan celebrated their anniversary.

Lincoln marriages

News from Highland Methodist Church

Sunday, Feb. 9, was cold, snowy and windy. Highland still looked like a war zone because of the ice storm which other areas missed. Ice still clung to the trees. There were loads of branches and trees down. Several had been without electricity, some for up to four days.

In spite of the weather those who could were in attendance. Everyone was thankful for being protected and now being together.

New concerns added to the prayer list included the Elwanda Gourley family; Kristin Taylor; Mrs. Petrey's son, Jason; Janice Smith; John Burl Murphy family; Linda Sue Adams family, and Heloise Reed.

The scripture reading was from Joshua which dealt with God's working of yet another miracle. Rev. Scillee reminded us we begin where we are and move forward. The children of Israel responded to God's instructions. The instructions were: 1. Step into the water, 2. Expect a miracle, and 3. Build a monument. Through active faith miracles happen and God's goodness must always be remembered and shared.

At the Highland United Methodist Church good things happen every week. We invite you to come hear and share how God is working.

Sunday school is at 10 a.m. and worship at 11 a.m. You will always find a warm welcome.

When you're expressing love to others this Valentine's Day don't forget the Lord.

Frith receives recognition

Martha Frith, R.N.

Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital (EMFLH) is pleased to recognize and honor one of its nurses for her extraordinary patient care. Martha Frith, R.N., a nurse in the Birthing Spa at EMFLH, was one of many nurses nominated for the DAISY Award. A resident of Lincoln County, Martha has been caring for patients at EMFLH for six years.

She was nominated by several patients and family members of patients. One of the patients said "When my baby was being born, there were some complications and if it wasn't for her, I probably wouldn't have my precious boy today. You could tell she truly cared about the welfare of me and my baby. Just thinking about what she did, I still cry. She is an amazing nurse."

Ephraim McDowell is proud to recognize nurses with the DAISY Award, a national program that honors the compassionate care and clinical excellence that nurses bring to their patients every day. Nomination forms for the DAISY Award are available at various locations throughout EMFLH and Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center and online at www.emhealth.org.

Ephraim McDowell scores high on behavioral health quality measures

Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center's (EMRMC) Behavioral Health unit recently scored above the state and national average for the quality of its psychiatric care.

Free-standing psychiatric hospitals and acute-care hospitals with psychiatric units can benchmark themselves against other facilities based on a set of seven core measures. The standardized measures were developed by The Joint Commission, National Association of Psychiatric Health Systems (NAPHS), the National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors (NASMHPD) and the NASMHPD Research Institute, Inc. (NRI).

Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center has provided psychiatric services for residents of Boyle and surrounding counties for many years and the recent quality scores validate the hard work being done in this field.

Life changes, medical conditions and the overall pressures of daily living can have an impact on a person's behavior and mental health. Ephraim McDowell can help adults learn to cope with those situations through the inpatient Behavioral Health Services Unit. The multidisciplinary staff at EMRMC includes psychiatrists, nurses, clinical social workers, activity therapists and other support personnel, who deliver compassionate, supportive care in a 16-bed inpatient unit. Patients may be admitted by a board-certified psychiatrist based on referrals by primary care physicians, human service agencies and other mental health providers, or you may self-refer.

Older adults may face challenges related to aging. Life changes may result in psychiatric and/or behavioral symptoms ranging from anxiety and/or depression to dementia and paranoia. EMRMC also offers a seven-bed Geropsychiatric Unit – one of only a few available in this area – that is specifically designed to help older adults cope with changes they may be encountering. The program is short-term and emphasizes dignity and respect for each individual.

Outpatient child, adolescent and adult psychiatry services are offered at the Ephraim McDowell Specialty Center Annex, located at 222 South Third Street in Danville.

For more information about inpatient Behavioral Health Services, please call (859) 239-4000.

Sara's notes

By Sara Givens

Oh, a breath of fresh air as the sun shines bright in my old Kentucky home. The whisper of the wind and the patches of snow, we are so blessed, better than blessed....

Mrs. Sandra Hill will be having a "be ready" program on Sunday, Feb. 23 as the Black History comes into its celebration, memories and failures. She is asking that those that are going to take part, please let her know as soon as possible. Dinner will be served immediately after morning worship. Elder Robert Coulter, Jr., is the pastor.

Ms. Leshia Wilkinson remains a patient at the UK Medical Center after having open heart surgery.

Mr. Ernest Lee Gooch was admitted into the Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center and later released.

Rev. Kelvin Robinson, pastor of Bethel AME Church, Boneyville, is back in the pulpit after being a patient at Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center.

Miss Kiera Thomas, granddaughter of Ms. Anna Npaier, was in a car wreck but is doing okay. She is the daughter of Mrs. Terenia Thomas.

Thought for the week: You don't need someone to complete you. You only need someone to accept you completely.

Happy Valentine's Day.

$50B Russian Olympics show is just that — show

Russian President Vladimir Putin has spent more than $50 billion — more than all previous Winter Games combined — to unveil a “new Russia” at the Sochi Olympics.

But Sochi’s shiny new infrastructure is little more than a Potemkin village, an extravagant ruse designed to deceive the world about the true nature of Putin’s police state.

Much to Putin’s dismay, media coverage leading up to the Games has focused on the corruption, repression and security concerns that threaten to make the most costly Games the most unsavory since the Berlin Olympics in 1936.

Putin’s “new Russia,” it turns out, looks very much like the old Russia that denied freedom of expression, religious liberty and other human rights under both the Tsars and Soviets.

Consider, for example, two repressive measures Putin signed into law on the same day last June.

The better known of the two is the so-called “gay propaganda” law that has been widely condemned as a violation of free speech and freedom of assembly. Under the guise of protecting children from information about homosexuality, the law stigmatizes and silences LGBT Russians by preventing free speech, public gatherings and distribution of literature.

Since the bill’s enactment, harassment and violence directed at LGBT people has escalated in cities across Russia.

The second bill got fewer headlines, but it also raises alarms about the deterioration of freedom in Putin’s Russia.

Prompted by the punk band Pussy Riot’s protest in Moscow’s main cathedral in 2012, the Duma passed a law criminalizing insulting people’s “religious feelings” in public. As a result, anyone who dares offend the sensibilities of the faithful (and this usually means Russian Orthodox believers) could face 3 years imprisonment and a stiff fine.

The “gay propaganda” and “blasphemy” bills are the latest in a series of Russian laws passed in recent years limiting freedom of expression and belief while protecting the power and privilege of the Russian Orthodox Church.

According to a 2012 report issued by the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom, a law banning unauthorized public gatherings has been used against minority religious communities, including a Protestant pastor fined for holding a religious service. Another law intended to counter “extremism” has been used to ban religious texts and treat as criminals people who prepare, store or distribute banned texts.

Evangelicals, Mormons, Jehovah’s Witnesses, Muslims and other groups in Russia have suffered discrimination and harassment under these and similar laws.

On paper, the 1993 Russian Constitution bars establishment of religion, recognizes all religions as equal before the law, and guarantees freedom of speech and religion. In practice, however, Putin’s government has an unholy alliance with the Russian Orthodox Church, an entanglement of church and state that contributes to repression of LGBT people and minority faiths.

Over the next few weeks, Putin will get his $50-billion moment in the sun. But we shouldn’t let the Olympic hype obscure the ugly truth about Putin’s rule.

At the Sochi Games, all that glitters is not gold.

Senate braves weather, forges ahead with legislation

Despite the rough weather conditions, the Senate convened this week and worked on a variety of legislation. I hope you are managing the weather safely, and have avoided problems.

This week, the Senate passed legislation (that I co-sponsored) unanimously. Senate Bill 59 makes certain contractual language null and void regarding damaged items received from commercial transporters. In short, this would protect motor carriers from clauses in shipping contracts that require them to assume liability for all accidents even if they're not at fault. The provision would prevent the motor carriers from having to agree contractually to pay any claim which may arise from the contract regardless of fault.

Chris Girdler
State Senator

I also proudly co-sponsored Senate Bill 44, which passed this week. This bill grants 10% gross weight tolerance on all highways, except interstates, for farm trucks transporting agricultural products. Many of our leading agricultural industries can save money and operate more efficiently with this measure. It also will keep companies in our state, rather than moving out to save money.

Other key bills passed this week included Senate Bill 1 and Senate Bill 58. Senate Bill 1, which places a constitutional amendment on the ballot to ensure checks and balances, empowers the Legislature to can void deficient Executive Branch regulations.

Senate Bill 58 proposes another constitutional amendment that abolishes the Treasurer’s Office. With this measure, Kentucky would save at least $2 million in the first year, and $750,000 in subsequent years. The duties of the office would be absorbed by the Finance Cabinet.

Regarding educational opportunity, Senate Bill 87 passed. This bill gives students flexibility by allowing KEES money to be spent on dual credit courses while the student is still in high school. They can take up to six hours of college credit or Industry-recognized licensure and certification granting school.

Also, this week we again passed a bill requiring an ultrasound prior to an abortion procedure. Senate Bill 8 ensures information is fully known by patients through the consultation of a doctor during an ultrasound.

Thank you for the opportunity to serve and for keeping in touch regarding issues of legislation. I encourage you to come to Frankfort for hearings of interest to you or to view the Senate. Citizens are always welcome in our committee meetings. If you can’t drive up, then please tune in. You can view live-streaming and archived coverage of legislative proceedings at www.ket.org.

Kentucky in desperate need of tax reform

We passed the one-third mark of the 2014 Regular Session this past week, and one of the highlights was the unveiling of the Governor’s proposal for comprehensive tax reform in Kentucky.

The Commonwealth has not tackled tax reform since 2005, when Governor Ernie Fletcher proposed updating some of Kentucky’s tax code, which was referred to as tax modernization. While that legislation had some impact, full tax modernization has not been passed by the General Assembly for decades.

The wheels of progress on bringing Kentucky’s tax

David Meade
State Representative

code into our 21st Century economy have been at two speeds: slow and stop. Numerous administrations have put together studies on revamping our tax system, and the only attention they mustered was to gather dust on a shelf somewhere in the Capitol.

It has taken two years for the current administration to propose a tax system overhaul plan from the first meeting of its blue ribbon panel to study our tax code and make recommendations. Among the ideas put forth by the Governor include:

- Lowering Kentucky’s corporate tax rate by one-tenth of a percent, 6.0 to 5.9.
- Raises sales tax on a pack of cigarettes to $1.00
- Establishes an angel investor tax credit for those who invest in startup companies
- Provides a tax credit for Kentucky’s bourbon industry
- Expands sales tax on services to include commercial and residential services

On first blush it appears the Governor’s tax proposal does nothing more than expand the Commonwealth’s revenue base with very few tax reductions. While there are parts of the plan I cannot endorse, I do agree with the call by House Republican Floor Leader Jeff Hoover for the House and Senate to put together a small group of legislators with the goal of reaching a compromise on tax reform to, in his words, “...not delay it another year or allow it to be the subject of petty political games...”

While we have sat on tax reform for the last 30 or so years, surrounding states like Indiana and Tennessee have passed us by, due in large part to making their states more business friendly by updating their respective tax codes. In 1970, Kentucky and Tennessee were mirror images population and business climate. Now the Volunteer state has dramatically grown their population, and their economy has prospered thanks in part to tax reform.

We simply cannot wait any longer to tackle this important issue. Instead of passing bills that serve only to hurt small business, government’s role should be to help them grow and provide more jobs. Passing a comprehensive tax reform bill is simply good government in action.

I welcome your comments and concerns on any issues impacting our Commonwealth during the 2014 Regular Session. I can be reached through the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181, or you can contact me via e-mail at david.meade@lrc.ky.gov. You can keep track of committee meetings and potential legislation through the Kentucky Legislature Home Page at www.lrc.ky.gov, and I also encourage you to follow the House Republican Caucus on Facebook and Twitter.

News from the Kings Mountain community

By Violet Bell/Beverly Murphy
On Sunday, Feb. 2, Pleasant Point Baptist Church's men's group cooked and served breakfast for the ladies and children of the church. There was also an all men's choir and the men took care of all classes and the sermon. There was a fairly large crowd of people attending.
I received a phone call this week from Ethelene Johnson of Ohio and she shared with me the sad news that Glen Johnson had passed away. Glen was the son of Haran and Hazel Johnson who lived in Kings Mountain many years ago. Haran was the son of the late Worth and Dorothy Johnson. Glen was a wonderful son and his family will miss him a great deal. Our condolences go out to the Johnson Family.
Violet Bell suffered another bad fall on Feb. 2 and had to be hospitalized at the Ephraim McDowell Hospital in Danville. She had a broken pelvis with this fall and was bruised and banged quite a lot. She was transferred to the Golden Living Center in Stanford where she will under go a few weeks of therapy. She would certainly enjoy having some company to visit with her. If you are in Stanford anytime soon, stop in and say hello to her. She is a great lady. She has so many of her former students living in the area and she would love to talk to each one and believe me, she will remember them all.

On a sad note, we lost another great lady this past week; Elwanda Reece Gourley was buried on Sunday, Feb. 9. Elwanda lived many years in Kings Mountain and we will always claim her as our own. She was a loving and caring friend to everyone. She and my late mother-in-law Helene Murphy were close friends and they were together most of the time and shared some funny moments. On one of their escapades, they traveled to London, to attend the visitation of one of Helene's cousins. They went into the "Funeral Home" and saw two gentlemen dressed in black suits. They approached one gentleman and ask in which room was the body of the deceased. This gentleman turned to the other gentleman and said "she asked where was the body!" The second gentleman told them quietly that they were in a restaurant and the funeral home was next door.

Anyone who knew these two women can imagine how they had to sit in their car and laugh for about 30 minutes before they could compose themselves enough to go into the correct building. I could tell many stories just like this one. They enjoyed their time together as much as anyone I know and they would both get a chuckle out of reading this article. I love them both dearly and I wish that everyone could have as much fun in life as they did. Because of her friendship with Helene, Elwanda was an expected visitor to our house in Milan, Ind. She attended the graduations, concerts and weddings of my sons and they considered her as Aunt Elwanda. We all love her and will miss her. Our deepest condolences go out to all of her family and friends.
If you have any Kings Mountain news, please call 365-2991.

with accumulations of up to 1.5 inches measured by linemen crews, Gilliam said.

Ice brought down multiple power poles and hundreds of power lines. It also brought down tree limbs across Lincoln County.

Lincoln County Emergency Management Director Don Gilliam said downed trees initially blocked 60 roads around the county.

Warmth shelters were opened up around the county to provide a safe place for families who had lost power and had no heat, Don Gilliam said. As many as five of the county’s 19 shelters were open at one point, he added.

While no one wound up needing to stay the night in a shelter, multiple people used the shelters as a place to get warm and recharge their cell phones, Don Gilliam said.

By the morning of Feb. 6, power had been restored to some, but more than 2,200 in Lincoln were still powerless. A day later, the number of powerless was down to about 850 in Lincoln and 920 in Inter-County’s coverage area.

Sheree Gilliam said power was restored to everyone who lost power Feb. 4 by 10 p.m. Friday.

However, additional falling trees caused more outages in the Skyline Drive, Ottenheim and Broughtontown areas of Lincoln County on Saturday. Crews were dispatched to remove the fallen trees and restore power, Sheree Gilliam said.

Crews from energy cooperatives in Glasgow, Somerset and Tennessee responded Feb. 5 to help with restoring power. Those crews worked with Inter-County through Saturday.

Above and below, Lincoln County firefighters battle a blaze inside a home on Ky. 643 near Crab Orchard Monday night. Icy conditions made fighting the fire difficult; it took firefighters nearly six hours to fully extinguish the flames and clear the scene. No one was injured in the fire and five people living in the home escaped safely. Use your Ky. X-tra app on the photo below to see video from the scene.

CRAB ORCHARD — Firefighters had to fight through icy conditions and bitterly cold temperatures to put out a large house fire near Crab Orchard Monday night.

Five people lived in the three-story house on Ky. 643 but no one was injured and everyone made it out safely, said Connie Price, one of the residents of the house.

Price said she thinks the fire began behind a stove on the basement level of the home. Lincoln County Fire Chief Danny Glass said an official cause of the fire has not been determined, but confirmed it originated on the left end of the house in the basement.

Lincoln County Assistant Fire Chief Troy Gingrass said county firefighters from seven stations responded to the structure fire, bringing every Lincoln County tanker truck to provide water for the fight.

“We got the call somewhere around 6 and once we got on scene, the structure was fully involved. It’s been an uphill battle with the ice and the conditions we have,” Gingrass said. “We’ve had several fireman to fall off ladders and fall down steps. It makes it hard.”

At least one firefighter was seen being assisted away from the scene with a limp in one leg. East End Ambulance had an ambulance at the scene, but officials did not report any major injuries to any firefighters.

Gingrass said the slippery conditions meant some fire trucks couldn’t get up an incline to the structure, so a staging area had to be set up at a distance from the house. Extra hoses were required so firefighters could reach the house with water.

It wasn’t until after 9 p.m. that Gingrass said the fire was under control. Glass said firefighters were on the scene finishing extinguishing the blaze until after midnight.

Firefighters used ladders to access upstairs windows and a second-story balcony. The structure was burned so badly as to be potentially unstable, firefighters said.

While fire may have substantially damaged half or more of the structure, it was ly the district’s only options, Smith said.

SCHOOL

From A1

Smith said a survey is being conducted of parents to determine whether the last two days of the district’s spring break — April 3 and 4 — should be lined up as possible make-up days.

The school board will take results from the survey into account when it considers possible updates to the calendar tonight, Smith said.

The district planned for up to 18 make-up days because it’s required to plan for the most missed days encountered over the past five school years, Smith explained. In the 2009-2010 school year, Lincoln had 15 snow days and also missed three days due to widespread illness.

Districts across Kentucky are facing problems with excessive snow days. Some other school districts are beginning to consider lengthening their school day in order to meet state requirements for instructional hours in fewer days, Smith said.

The state requires every school district to provide students with at least 1,062 instructional hours. That breaks down to a minimum of 170 instructional days, if every day include six hours and 15 minutes of instruction.

Smith said Lincoln’s calendar currently provides for 172 instructional days, with six and a half hours of instruction per day. That’s a total of 1,118 instructional hours.

The school board is not planning to alter the total number of instructional days or hours, Smith said.

“We’re not even considering that at this point,” he said. “If we miss several more days, the board might look at it.”

Smith said lowering the total number of instructional days in Lincoln’s district is undesirable because a recent audit recommended that Lincoln try to maintain 172 instructional days.

“I think we would have to miss a lot more before we would consider cutting our calendar back to 170,” he said.

Testing dates used to be an issue when schools had lots of snow days, because testing was scheduled for a specific timeframe. But in recent years, the rules have changed. Smith said testing now takes place during the last two weeks of a school year, whenever those two weeks arrive.

The number of snow days also affects when graduation happens. Unless the board allows changes, Fort Logan High School typically holds graduation on the last instructional day and Lincoln County High School holds graduation on the next day, which is the school closing day, Smith explained.

Unless there are more snow days coming, that means Fort Logan seniors would graduate on June 4

The graphic above shows which days have been missed by Lincoln County schools so far this school year and which days will be used to make up the lost days. The district has three planned make-up days left to use for future missed days and might also consider canceling spring break to gain two more days if necessary.

Graphic by Ben Kleppinger / Source: Lincoln County School District Calendar, revised Jan. 8 and Lincoln County seniors would graduate on June 5.

Smith said if a school district has more than 20 snow days, it can ask Kentucky’s education commissioner to forgive missed days beyond the 20-day mark. It’s also possible the state legislature will put in place some kind of snow-day forgiveness for Kentucky districts due to the worse-than normal winter.

The Lincoln County School Board could discuss the school calendar at its regularly scheduled meeting, 6:30 p.m. Feb. 13.

Lincoln girls collect back-to-back wins over Garrard

Lady Patriots put away Lady Lions in first half; roll 56-32

STANFORD — They didn't get the license number of the truck, but this much is certain: It had Lincoln County plates.

The Lincoln County girls hit Garrard County with such force that the outcome of Friday's game was evident by the middle of the first quarter, and by the middle of the second quarter the Lady Patriots had driven off into the distance.

Lincoln put 25 points on the board and forced 18 turnovers before allowing a basket and cruised from there to a 56-32 victory over Garrard in the first of two games in four days between the 45th District rivals.

The Lady Patriots were driven by defense, as they forced 13 turnovers by the Lady Golden Lions in the first quarter and 28 in all.

"I'm pleased with the defensive effort," Lincoln coach Cassandra McWhorter said. "I'd like to see us not foul as much, but it's things we're working on, and we did some things we're trying to get better at, and I am pleased with their effort defensively. And I thought we came mentally ready to play."

There was little doubt of that after Lincoln (14-10, 3-2 district) scored seven points off turnovers on a 3-point goal by Cristin Hall and layups by Kelsi Honaker and Spencer Sims that were part of a 12-0 run over the first 3 minutes, 41 seconds.

Garrard (10-10, 0-5) gave the ball up seven times during that stretch and 13 times before Sis Logan scored its first point on a free throw with 1:16 remaining in the first quarter.

The Lady Lions were 0-for-5 from the field at that point, and they finished the first quarter 0-for-6 and the first half 1-for-15. By the time Sam Adams sank a jump shot from the key for their first field goal with 55 seconds left in the second quarter

Garrard girls make Lincoln work hard for second win

By Nancy Leedy

LANCASTER — What a difference a few days make.

When Lincoln County hosted Garrard County on Friday, the Lady Patriots steamrolled their way to a 56-32 victory over the Lady Golden Lions.

Garrard would not go down so easily in Monday's 45th District rematch at the Lion's Den.

The Lady Lions never led in the rematch but they traded runs with the Lady Patriots to keep play close, using scoring runs in the second, third and fourth quarters to whittle double-digit deficits to single digits. However, it wouldn't be enough to stop Lincoln which surged in the first and third quarters to claim the 61-52 win.

"It was a little uglier than Friday night for us, but I knew coming in that they were going to be ready to go because we just beat them on Friday night," Lincoln coach Cassandra McWhorter said. "I knew they were going to try to make some adjustments and they are going to shoot better probably than they did. And they are on their home floor. So I'm not surprised it was a little bit tougher night for us."

It looked like Lincoln (15-10, 4-2 district) might be on the road to another big win as play got under way Monday. Tiandra Hocker, who led Lincoln with 15 points, opened the scoring with a bucket in the paint, Caitlin Hall followed with a 3-pointer, Spencer Sims scored off an inbounds pass, Hocker added a jumper and Cristin Hall scored a layup to get Lincoln rolling 11-0.

Garrard (10-11, 0-6) didn't break onto the scoreboard until the 3:35 mark of the first period, with Samantha Adams ending the scoring drought with a 3-pointer. The Lady Lions shot just 35 percent (17-for-49) from the field, going 2-for-17 in the first period. Maddy Day added the second Garrard bucket to make it 13-5.

Lincoln boys take down Garrard – again

Pats ride 32-7 run in second straight win over Lions

By Nancy Leedy

STANFORD — When Timmy Taylor finds his groove, it's tough to stop the Lincoln guard. Same goes for fellow guards Neil Conley and Jacob Conway.

Just ask Garrard County.

Taylor had a game-high 19 points and 11 assists, Conley was 6-for-12 from 3-point range for 18 points and Conway had 14 points and 10 rebounds as the Patriots collected their second consecutive win over the Golden Lions in a 77-45 rout Friday night.

Lincoln, which has now won 11 straight games, the last two against Garrard, was in a close contest with the Golden Lions in the first half and was clinging to a 3-point lead midway of the third quarter before the Patriots took control, using a 32-7 scoring run to set themselves up for the easy win.

"We really stepped it up on defense the second half," Conley said. "We struggled the first half guarding them and let a lot of rebounds get by. We moved the ball well the second half and attacked the basket and that's really what opened up the game for us."

Lincoln coach Jeff Jackson impressed on his team at halftime that a stronger defensive effort was a must to fend off Garrard.

“We had a good conversation at halftime with them because Garrard’s got a good team, a dangerous. And we knew they would fight hard to win,” he said. “And the team responded. I thought the second half we played really well and things started to go better.”

Garrard coach Dennis Bryant, whose team fell 63-53 to Lincoln on Saturday, said sticking to a “game plan” was key for the Lions in beating the Patriots – but they didn’t.

“When we ran our offense and stuck to our game plan we did a great job playing the way we wanted to. We just didn’t stick to our offense,” he said. When we ran our offense, we were scoring well and playing well. Then we went right back to our old habits – one pass, quick shot – got out of the game plan. Next thing you know, we’re down double digits and they keep hitting.”

Lincoln (19-5, 5-0 45th District) shot 52 percent (25-for-48) from the field in the win, amping its shot percentage with a 13-for-19 second-half effort. The Patriots were 13-for-25 from 3-point range.

And Lincoln’s long-range shots started raining down early, with Conley and Taylor each nailing two 3-pointers as the Patriots opened up a 14-3 lead. Conway also scored on a putback in the run.

Slade Crutchfield who led Garrard with 14 points on 4-for-11 shooting, answered with back-to-back 3s to set the Lions (8-14, 0-6) off on a 9-3 run. Austin Sebastian, who had 13 points on 5-for-10 shooting, picked up a free throw and Garrett Sparks added a bucket to make it 17-12. Conley tallied a 3 for Lincoln during the run.

The Patriots led 18-12 at the end of the first and Conway scored a putback to open the second period to make it 20-12 before Garrard went on another scoring tear – this time an 8-0 run to tie the game. Crutchfield had a three-point play and a 3-pointer then Sebastian hit to even the score at 20-all with 5 minutes, 59 seconds left in the first half.

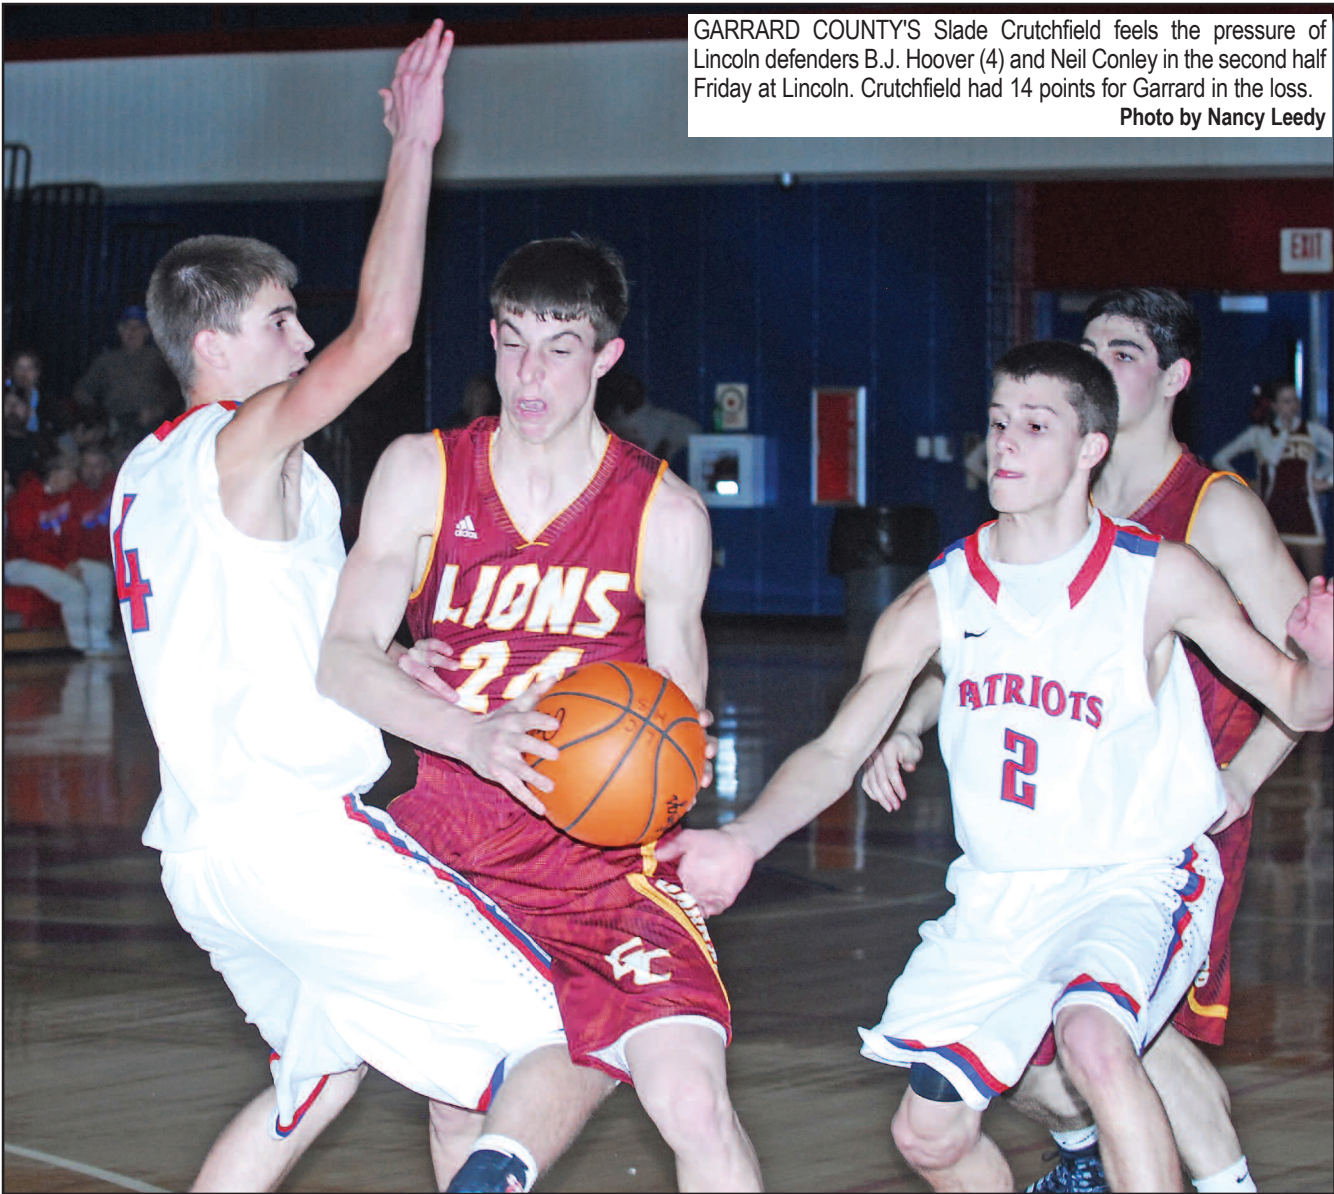

Conley, who scored all of his 18 points in the first half, basically answered Garrard’s run with one of his own, scoring three straight 3s in an 11-0 run. Kody Cornelius capped off the run with a basket to put Lincoln back on top 31-20 with 3:56 left in the half.

“It’s a relief to finally have a another good shooting night,” said Conley. “I have to give it to my team. They look for me to shoot the ball. They know I know my role and they look for me a lot.”

Jackson was pleased with Conley’s shooting and the 3s overall.

“Neil had a great game, had some good looks and shot the ball often. He got all his from 3 and we had 13 3s in the game,” Jackson said. “We’ve not had that many 3s in quite a while as a team.”

Taylor, who was 7-for-12 from the field, tallied Lincoln’s last 3-pointer of the first half with 3:22 showing to put the Patriots on top 34-22. But Garrard would cut that lead to single digits before the half, with Sebastian getting a basket, Jacob Smith sinking two free Garrard stole the ball to start the second half and Sebastian scored off a Crutchfield miss then Jesse Ray converted on a three-point play to get the Lions within 35-32. The Lions were still within 37-34 with 5:02 left in the third quarter after a Smith bucket.

Nick McCullom drove inside for a bucket with 2:45 left in the third to keep the margin at 45-38, however, the Lions, who shot 36 percent (16-for-45) from the field, would go scoreless for the next 5-1/2 minutes.

“When we ran our offense and stuck to our game plan we did a great job playing the way we wanted to. Even the very first play of the third quarter we did exactly what we talked about, did exactly what we wanted to do and scored the first two points, but then we got out of our game plan,” Bryant said. “We let them get into their transition offense and get the ball down the floor quick. We didn’t get back, and they got quick buckets. And Taylor killed us. He’s a great point guard and once he gets running and gets the other teammates in the passing lanes that kills.”

Lincoln did run and gun on Garrard the remainder of the game, starting with a Taylor jumper with 2:27 left in the third which ignited a 13-0 run. Cornelius followed with back-to-back buckets to make it 51-38 going into the fourth quarter and Conway pushed in the final seven points of the run, getting two foul shots, a 3-pointer and a jumper to make it a 58-38 ballgame with 5:55 to play. Lincoln went on to outscore Garrard 19-7 for the win.

“We did a better job in our defense the second half, moving our feet and contesting shots and our rotations were better and we were more active with our hands, as far as getting deflections,” said Jackson. “We did a good job of limiting them to one shot and we did a good job pushing the ball down the floor in transition.”

“They are just good,” Bryant said of the Patriots. “I was really proud of how our kids responded after a horrible loss against Danville, and I knew they would because they are great competitors, but (Patriots) are ranked second in the region and 11th in the state for a reason.”

Lincoln outrebounded Garrard 35-24. Andrew Wilks had seven boards for the Patriots. Sebastian led Garrard with nine rebounds.

At the foul line, Lincoln was 14-for-20 and Garrard, 9-for-18.

LADY PATS ROLL

they were 0-for-12 with 18 turnovers — and they were trailing 25-3.

“The very first play of the game we get the ball down two feet from the basket and miss one, so that kind of set the tone offensively,” Garrard coach Don Irvine said. “We’re just not scoring right now, and not taking care of the ball like we should.”

There were a few too many fouls for McWhorter’s liking — Lincoln had 12 in the first half — but she said they’ll continue to work on that, and forward Tiandra Hocker said the Lady Patriots did most everything else on defense that their coach wanted them to do.

“Coach McWhorter has been preaching to us about the little things, and that’s getting us ready for the tournament coming up, so we’ve got to do the little things,” Hocker said.

Lincoln’s win, coupled with Danville’s win at Boyle County on Friday, kept alive the Lady Patriots’ hopes of earning the No. 1 seed for the 45th District Tournament later this month.

“It is a big win. We need to win out ... but we just want to take one game at a time. We had six games left coming into this one (in the) regular season, and we just want to take one game at a time, work to get better every day and make sure we’re doing some of the little things that are preparing us for tournament time.”

McWhorter also said she was glad her players didn’t take it easy once it appeared the game was well in hand.

“I’ve not seen that from my team. They are teenagers, and you do worry about that a little bit, but they’re a strong group ... and I was very pleased with them keeping their focus, keeping their head in the game for the whole game,” she said.

Cristin Hall scored 15 points to lead Lincoln, and Hocker and Caitlin Hall scored eight points each.

Everyone got a chance to play for the Lady Patriots, and not just in the fourth quarter. McWhorter emptied her bench in the second quarter, giving her reserves a chance to play against Garrard’s starters.

“That’s experience that they need and things that will help us grow as a team,” she said.

Garrard’s lone first-half basket started a string of 12 straight points that pulled the Lady Lions within 25-15 early in the third quarter, but they were outscored 15-3 over the final 5:06 of the third period as the Lady Patriots opened a 40-18 lead.

“We showed some signs once in a while, but nothing consistent, nothing sustained. Until we do, we’re just a mediocre basketball team, a .500 basketball team, and we can’t beat the big dogs in the district playing like that,” Irvine said.

Lincoln shot 40 percent (21-for-53) from the field, while Garrard shot 21 percent (7-for-33) on 20 fewer attempts. The Lady Patriots also held a 38-28 edge in rebounds, getting eight from Tiandra Hocker and seven from reserve Aliyah Hocker.

Victoria Floyd scored 15 points in the second half and led Garrard with 17 points, and she and Maddie Day had seven rebounds each for the Lady Lions.

SECOND WIN

From B1

Lincoln finished at just 38 percent overall (20-for-53) but got off to a 6-for-12 start to post a 15-5 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The Lady Patriots’ posted their largest lead of the first half midway of the second quarter. Hocker opened the quarter with a bucket off a Sims’ assist and, after another Adams’ 3-pointer for Garrard, Sims, who finished with 10 points, sank two free throws. Cristin Hall, who contributed 13 points, then drained her own triple and added a free-throw toss to extend Lincoln’s lead to 23-8.

The Lady Lions had the deficit down to single digits before the end of the half, outscoring the Lady Patriots 11-4 in the final 3 minutes, 25 seconds of the second quarter. Adams scored on a layup, Miranda Davis drove inside for a bucket, Elle Montgomery sank a free throw, Randa Morris hit a 3 and Victoria Floyd, who led Garrard with a game-high 17 points and 11 rebounds, converted on a three-point play just before the break to cut Lincoln’s lead to 27-19.

Garrard carried the momentum of the second quarter into the third period, opening the second half on a 4-0 run to challenge Lincoln 27-23. Floyd sank two free throws and scored on a reverse layup to make it a four-point game.

As close as Garrard got, Lincoln never relinquished its lead, striking back with the game’s biggest run, 20-4. Sims and Hocker both scored four points to get the run started, Kelsi Honaker sank two free throws and Caitlin Hall nailed a 3-pointer. Then Cristin Hall poured in seven points to cap the run for Lincoln’s largest lead of the game 47-28.

Lincoln’s lead would not get any larger. Elle Montgomery bombed in a 3-pointer for Garrard just before the buzzer sounded to end the third then the Lady Lions outscored the Lady Patriots 21-14 in the final frame. Garrard managed to get within 54-46 before the final buzzer.

FARM FACTS

By Dan Grigson
Lincoln County Extension Office

Cold February days best time to improve pastures

Trivia question: What does a cattle farmer do on a cold, February day besides feed his cattle. Try this for an answer – renovate those fescue pastures. Pasture renovation season runs from early February through March, and I think the earlier, the better.

Why are the colder days better? Basically, in Kentucky pasture renovation means adding legumes such as red clover to fescue fields. If the legumes are planted early before the first warm spell causes the latent fescue to burst out in new growth the young clover seeds will have less competition from the more established plants.

Adding legumes such as red and white clover to fescue pastures is the most important single thing a farmer can do to improve his pastures, his cattle herd and his farm profits. Ninety percent of our fescue has the endophyte problem, which causes lower animal performance. Also, fescue has a summer slump that means the fescue grows well in the spring and the fall, but drops off in the hot, mid-summer days. Clover has deeper taproots and grows better than fescue in the summer. Clover offers these advantages when added to fescue:

- Increased yield (pastures with red clover will get as much yield as if the farmer had added 500 pounds of ammonia nitrate per acre).

- Improved Quality (Animals will improve because their feed will be higher in quality, nutrition and digestibility. Growing calves will grow an additional one-half pound per day on the improved pasture. Conception rates for cows are improved as much as 20 percent when those cows are grazing grass/clover mixtures.)

- Reduced production costs (use of a legume such as red clover may save as much as $75 per acre in nitrogen replacement costs).

- A fescue/clover mix reduces the summer slump problem for grazing cattle. If you want to do even better with production and beef profits then move up a notch to renovating with grazing type alfalfas. We have several local producers having great success grazing alfalfa-grass pastures.

Farmers should renovate their pastures now. Get a soil test now or right after seeding and apply needed lime, phosphorus and potassium, but do not add any nitrogen. Adding nitrogen now will stimulate the fescue to start early growth and compete with the newly seeded clover. Don't use DAP for your phosphate needs when renovating because it has enough nitrogen in it to make the grass grow enough to choke out the clover. If overseeding with fertilizer in a buggy just use potash now. Come back after the first grazing and put on the additional needed fertilizer. It is always best to overseed with a cyclone seeder rather than a fertilizer buggy. Of course, there are other good ways to renovate including: no-till and minimum tillage drills and disks.

Reduce the existing grass by heavy grazing, close cutting, or knock it down with herbicides to get the vegetation as short as possible. Use certified seed of the best red clover varieties, which include Cinnamon+, Certified Kenland, Starfive II, Ken Way, Freedom. These varieties produce 25 percent better yields and survive pretty well into the third year. Use quality white clovers such as Will, Advantage, Regal Graze and Patriot. Sow a mixture of eight pounds of red clover and two pounds of white clover per acre. Don't buy the cheap stuff because it won't last and it produces less yield per acre.

As the grass growth starts, you should control the competition. That's the number one reason for the failure of clover renovation. As soon as the weather warms up, fescue starts to grow very fast and can crowd out the newly planted clover. We recommend farmers graze fields until the clover gets up to two inches tall, or when the cattle begin to bite the clover off. At that point, the cattle should be moved into another field for four to six weeks to allow the clover to fully establish. Then they can be brought back for regular grazing or haying.

Renovation of pasture and hay fields will be the best money and time you can spend in the next two weeks. If you have questions on renovation, variety selection, etc. call me at the U.K. Extension Office in Stanford at 365-2447 or drop in for a visit. We are located at the U.K. Extension Office across from the Lincoln Plaza Shopping Center off the U.S. 150 by-pass on Metker Trail.

Cooperative Dove Field Program enrollment underway in February

Kentucky farmers can earn much-needed extra cash by enrolling in the Cooperative Dove Field Program. Enrollment is currently underway and continues until March 1.

The Cooperative Dove Field Program pays landowners to lease fields on their property for public dove hunting.

"Landowners may earn up to $10,000 in the Cooperative Dove Field Program," said Rocky Pritchert, migratory bird biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "They earn $300 per acre planted."

Pritchert said the department will accept fields ranging from 6 to 30 acres with additional payments for buffers around fields. "Fields generally run from 20 to 30 acres in size," he explained. "But, we encourage anyone interested to apply."

Farmers may plant an idle field to sunflowers, millet or another acceptable crop for a public dove field by working with a Kentucky Fish and Wildlife private lands biologist and following some simple guidelines.

Payment amounts depend on the number of acres enrolled, crop type and fulfillment of the plot management agreement with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife.

To get the process started, landowners must contact their Kentucky Fish and Wildlife private lands biologist or Natural Resources Conservation Service liaison. For a listing of biologists, visit on the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife's homepage at fw.ky.gov and click on the "Contact Us" tab at the top of the page. Property owners may also call the department at 1-800-858-1549 for more information.

Online security can help protect you from cyber thieves

The recent hacking theft of a large retailer’s database of millions of credit and debit card numbers should make everyone, even students, more careful about safeguarding their hard-earned money from cyber thieves. The following measures can help, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

Never provide personal information such as Social Security number, bank account or credit card numbers in response to a phone call, fax, letter or email. If you get an email from a bank or company with which you do business, don’t click on any links in the email. The link may lead you to a fake web page run by thieves hoping you’ll enter personal information, or it may install spyware or malware on your computer. Instead, sign in through the website you normally use when you do business with that firm.

Never provide bank, credit card or other sensitive data when visiting a website that doesn’t explain how your personal information will be protected, including the use of encryption to safely transmit and store data.

If you’re using an ATM card or debit card, ensure no one standing nearby can see your personal identification number (PIN).

On your personal computer, install a free or low-cost firewall to stop intruders from gaining remote access to your PC. Download and frequently update security patches offered by your operating system and software vendors to correct weaknesses that a hacker could exploit.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky’s grant and scholarship programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). It provides financial literacy videos at <http://itsmoney.kheaa.com>. KHEAA also provides free copies of “It’s Money, Baby,” a guide to financial literacy, to Kentucky schools and residents upon request at publications@kheaa.com.

Kentucky Afield Outdoors:

Stretch of horrid weather is perfect time to prepare for upcoming fishing season

FRANKFORT — With much of Kentucky covered in a sun-dae made of snow topped with a crust of ice, fishing season seems millennia away.

The sun gets higher in the southern sky with each passing day; it is only a matter of time before this horrible weather pattern breaks. Use this dark and cold time to prepare for the inevitable coming of the spring fishing season. Get your gear organized. While we change lures or rigs in haste while fishing, most of us just shove things such as bags of soft plastic lures, jigs or leaders into the first pocket in our tackle bag we find.

For most anglers, the tackle bag goes onto a shelf in the garage in fall until fishing season begins the next spring. Take the time now to get out all of your tackle and go through it. Throw away torn up soft plastic lures, replace worn spinnerbait or jig skirts and put everything back where it belongs. Then, you can actually find the lures or tackle when you need them this spring.

Organizing your tackle is especially important if you fish for different species from different platforms such as fishing from a motor boat for largemouth bass, wading for trout in the Cumberland River or floating for stream smallmouth bass in a canoe or kayak. Your tackle and lures easily grow into mishmash by the end of the fishing year.

Use closeout season to upgrade your fishing rods or reels. The large catalog outfitters routinely clearance many of their fishing items at this time of year to make room for new models. Earlier models of reels or rods usually perform just as well as the new models. Remember, those same rods and reels were cutting edge when they debuted on the market, usually just a couple of years ago. You can often find them at a steep discount, sometimes 50 percent or more off the original price right now.

This is a great time to buy closeout lures as well as steeply discounted fishing waders, wade boots and fishing vests. It is also a good time to buy deer or waterfowl hunting gear at great prices.

The clearance season is a good time for journeyman anglers to specialize their rods and reels. When most of us start fishing, we use one or two rods for all of our fishing, regardless of species sought or water body fished. They are all we have. As fishing experience develops your skill level to a higher plane, the one or two rod approach doesn't work anymore. You don't want to fish jigs in heavy cover for largemouth bass with a light power rod or use a medium-heavy power rod for crappie.

Remember the difference between a rod's power and action. The power of a rod determines what fishing situation the rod's design allows. For example, a light power spinning rod usually handles from 4- to 8-pound test line and lures from 1/16-ounce to 5/16-ounce. This rod is a poor choice for throwing ½-ounce jigs into heavy cover for largemouth bass, but great for fishing 1/8-ounce tube jigs for stream smallmouth bass.

The bend point of the rod determines its action. Extra fast action rods bend mostly in the tip section, making them extremely sensitive and good for bottom presentations in deep water. Fast action rods bend mostly in the upper one-third of the rod and provide backbone for hook sets and fighting fish, but still allowing some forgiveness.

Moderate action rods make excellent live bait rods as their softness doesn't rip bait off the hook, but they still have enough strength in the lower half of the rod to battle a fish. A slow action rod bends for most of its length and is used mainly for casting live bait a long distance.

Match the power and action of a rod to the fishing situation when upgrading rods.

Respool all of your reels. Line is the only connection between the fish and you. It is also relatively cheap. You can respool a reel with monofilament line for less than the cost of a large candy bar. Fluorocarbon lines cost much more, but a respool with even the highest end fluorocarbon line costs less than one fast food lunch. Fishing line weakens with exposure to sunlight, water and use. Old line will let you down when you can afford it least. Avoid the gut punch that comes with breaking off huge largemouth bass, catfish, striped bass or trout because you didn't replace old, worn line.

Finally, study maps of the lakes or rivers you plan to fish this coming year. Most anglers feel more comfortable fishing structures they can see. Fishing visual structure puts you at the end of a long line of anglers.

Map study illuminates underwater humps, points that extend well out into the lake and river rock bars known only to ship captains. The farther from shore you can find fishable structures, the more likely you are to find trophies.

Trophy fish flee human activity. They don't grow large by being caught. Find subtle offshore areas to fish and separate from the crowd.

Get organized, upgrade your rods, respool your reels and spend a few icy February evenings with a cup of hot chocolate and a map in your lap. You'll have a leg up on spring fishing when this long, horrid winter finally ends.

Remember to buy your 2014 fishing license soon as the 2013 fishing license expires Feb. 28, 2014.

Baby Boomers May Avoid Knee Surgery With Modern Arthritis Treatments

Doctors say these two factors are the keys to knee arthritis treatment success and relieving pain without surgery

By Matt Edgar
America's Health Writer

Lexington - Everyone has said it at one time or another. If I had only known about "this" sooner - things would be very different today.

That's what many knee arthritis pain sufferers are saying about this technology and treatment.

"We all know that countless lives are being saved every year because of early detection and better treatment of cancer," stated one of the physicians at OsteoRelief Institute in Lexington, Kentucky. "The same holds true for treating knee arthritis pain. I believe we are having so much success at OsteoRelief Institute because of two factors: One is we are using advanced medical technology and treatments a lot of clinics do not use. And second, the word has spread to our community and so many knee arthritis sufferers are coming in sooner. And the earlier we can treat knee arthritis - the better the results. The key to avoiding knee replacement surgery is doing the correct treatments as soon as possible."

What is the "correct treatment?"
"That depends, there is no one answer when it comes to medical conditions and knee arthritis is no different. That's why, if you have knee pain, you should have it evaluated by a doctor who deals with and treats knee pain every day," stated the clinics director of services.

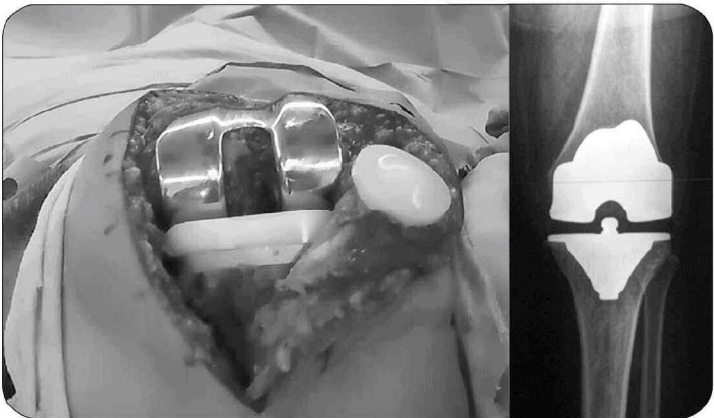

For many knee arthritis pain sufferers the right treatments is viscosupplementation. In this treatment, a preparation of Hyaluronic acid (such as Hyalgan) is injected directly into the knee joint.

Hyaluronic acid is a natural lubricant and shock absorber of your joints and is found to be decreased in arthritis sufferers. This is similar to running your car low or without oil. Obviously, the sooner you put oil back in the car - the less damage will be done. That's why some doctors feel early viscosupplementation gets the best results and is so important for avoiding surgery.

And the Doctors believe one of the most important factors for the success of viscosupplementation is making sure you are getting it into the joint space. That's why the doctors at OsteoRelief Institute use advanced imaging technology called a "C-Arm."

A C-Arm allows the doctor to see into the joint and actually watch the injection go where it is supposed to. Research shows that performing injections without digital imaging can result in missing the joint space as much as 30% of the time. If you had viscosupplementation treatments without advanced imagining and did not get good results - this may be why.

"If you have knee arthritis pain, viscosupplementation might be the answer you are looking for. The keys are to not wait, get a good evaluation from an expert and make sure advanced digital imaging (C-Arm) is used to make sure you have the best chance for success." was the advice of the doctors at the Osteo Relief Institute.

Free Knee Pain Screenings Offered To Help Determine If Lexington Area Residents Qualify For Popular Treatment

Lexington area knee pain sufferers have limited time to claim knee pain screening to see if all-natural knee arthritis treatment might work for them

If you qualify for this treatment, it might be one of the happiest days of your life.

That's because, for the past year and a half, hundreds of knee pain sufferers have flocked to Osteo Relief Institute located in Lexington, Kentucky. That's when their specially trained doctors added Hyalgan treatments to their already successful and comprehensive knee pain relief program.

Hyalgan is unique because - even though it is manufactured by a pharmaceutical company, it's in NOT considered a drug because it is a natural substance with an incredible story.

Why So Many Want It

You see, when you suffer with arthritis - the lubricating fluid (synovial fluid) in your knee joint dries up.

This means instead of gliding smoothly - your bones start to rub and grind against each other.

This causes a little pain in the beginning - but over time the pain steadily gets worse until it is excruciating.

Like "Joint Oil"

Hyalgan works so well because it is like "joint oil." It is a natural substance that contains one of the natural building blocks of the synovial fluid that lubricates your knee.

Scientists and researchers discovered this natural building block to synovial fluid in the rooster's comb - that big red thing on top of the roosters head. It is extracted from the roosters comb, purified and concentrated.

When it is injected directly into your knee joint, it is like squirting oil on a rusty door hinge.

Hyalgan allows your joints to glide more smoothly eliminating a lot of the rubbing, grinding and pain.

Can Supplements Do The Same Thing?

No. Glucosamine and chondroitin and other supplements are much different. You can only get this from a doctor and it often helps knee pain sufferers who got limited or no success from glucosamine and chondroitin. Beware of unsubstantiated claims made by supplements to do what this advanced medical procedure does.

Why You Should Try This Even If You've Already Had Similar Treatments Without results...

"We have been able to help so many knee pain sufferers - even many who have already tried other injections like Synvisc, Supartz, Orthovisc and even Hyalgan. We use specail and very advanced advanced low-dose video flourosocopy imaging called "Hologic Digital Imaging" so we can see right into the joint. This allows us to put the Hyaglan exactly where is needs to be. Studies show doctors doing joint injections without flourosocopy miss the joint up to 30% of the time." said the head of Arthritis Treatment at OsteoRelief Institute.

OsteoRelief Institute is a state of the art medical facility offering only the best technology.

And that's not all - OsteoRelief Institute has a complete knee relief program called "P.A.C.E." to make sure you get the most pain relief and the best possible results from treatment.

"Every case is individual. Some patients get quite a bit of relief right away - others take a little more time. But most have been extremely happy and the results usually last for at least 6 months. Patients who were suffering for years with bad knee pain are getting their lives back... going for walks again and exercising. It's amazing to see. They tell all their friends - that's why we are swarmed. I can't tell you how many patients have cancelled their total knee replacement surgeries." added one of the doctors.

How To Get It

If you have knee pain, the doctors and staff would like to Advanced Medical Technology Can Make All The Difference: This advanced digital imaging called a C-arm allows doctors to see directly into the knee joint so treatments are precise and the Hyalgan actually goes where it is supposed to. Studies show that injections done without digital imaging can miss the joint up to 30% of the time. This is one reason Hyalgan or other Viscosupplementation may not have worked for you. OsteoRelief Institute uses this C-arm for every Hyalgan treatment.

invite you for a risk free screening to see if you are a candidate for Hyalgan treatments and the P.A.C.E program.

All you have to do is call 859-474-2775 right now and when the scheduling specialist answers the phone tell her you would like your risk free "Knee Pain Screening." The specialists at OsteoRelief Institute can only accept a limited amount of new patients each month for this screening - so if you are interested please call now. Your risk free screening will only take about 25-30 minutes... you will get all your questions answered and leave knowing if you have possibly found the solution to your knee pain.

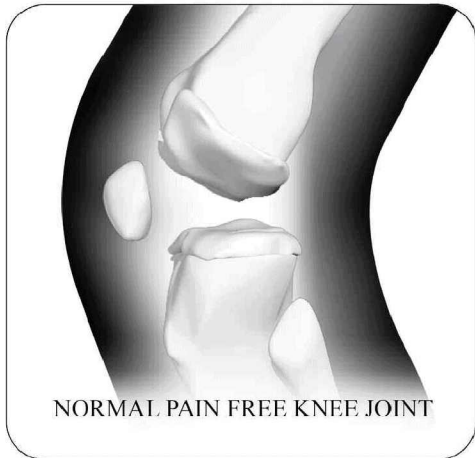

And here's something really important - Hyalgan treatments and the P.A.C.E program are covered by most insurance and Medicare. To schedule your screening today call 859-474-2775.

If You Can Answer Yes - You Are Eligible For A Knee Arthritis Screening With The Experts At Osteo Relief Institute

- ➔ Do you have pain and oteoarthritis (arthritis) of the the knee?
- ➔ Have you tried other treatments such as NSAIDS and other anti-inflammatory medications without success?
- ➔ Have you already tried viscosupplementation (Hyalgan, Suparz, Synvisc) without satisfactory results?

NORMAL, PAIN FREE KNEE JOINT

KNEE WITH PAINFUL ARTHRITIS

HYALGAN INJECTED DIRECTLY INTO KNEE JOINT LIKE "JOINT OIL"

RESEARCH SHOWS DOCTORS MISS THE JOINT SPACE ABOUT 30% OF THE TIME WITHOUT ADVANCED IMAGING

Everyone Wants Proof: In the artist simulated drawings above, picture #1 is a normal, pain-free knee. There is no arthritis and the knee can move and bend freely without pain.

Pain - above is a knee joint with painful osteo-arthritis. Arthritis causes the joint space to decrease, grinding, stiffness, decreased motion, bone spurs, swelling and a lot of pain.

Successful Treatment - Hyalgan (blue) being precisely injected directly into the knee joint using Hologic digital imaging. Advanced imaging allows treatments to be as precise as possible. Hyalgan can lubricate the joint and decrease pain.

Failed Treatment - the injection (and Hyalgan) misses the joint space. Research shows this occurs up to 30% of the time without the use of Hologic digital imaging to guide the injection. This is why Hyalgan may not have worked for you.
